Conference “Moving UTNA to Internationalization”

- Promoting student mobility so our students are part of an overall inclusion in global education and employment.

La Universidad Tecnológica del Norte de Aguascalientes, through the Department of Languages and Internationalization constantly promoting events that encourage the university community interest not only learning English, but they know the importance of training in other languages to be part of a cultural diversity that allows them to integrate successfully to the workforce, developing a global competition.

To promote this mentality, young third quarter of all majors are invited to the event “UK and guess conference”. Moving UTNA to Internationalization, in which students who have studied in another country shared their experience in order to motivate them to seek opportunities in and outside Mexico, this unique type of program allows students to have an formative exchange and expand their vision, be more adaptable to a new way of living, to face challenges that put their knowledge to the test and also it is a way to open new doors within the marketplace.

Prior to the event, Prof. Jovita Martinez Rodriguez, said a few words to mention that now speaking a second language is not enough, so the UTNA is interested in giving them the opportunity to learn other languages which are present in Aguascalientes, these will allow them to be part the global world we live in, and through the exchange students will attain a better understanding from other cultures among nations.

Alexander John Pearson, who came to our institution in September as part of the exchange program assistants Mexico-UK, he noted in his presentation that take the path of mobility allows you to leave your comfort zone to reach where there is magic, to have an open mind, and learn other languages, stressing that if you go to another country and not learn its native language is like if you have not traveled at all.

Meanwhile, Kerent Saint and Vincent Clervius, from Haiti, who are studying Technologies Multimedia and eCommerce area as part of a mobility program, as well as Edgar Gurrola Alonso, a student of UTNA who had spent a year in France; They shared with students part of their experiences that have enriched their lives to be part of academic exchange programs, in addition to classroom learning, they have visited new places and made great friendships along the way, they realize that globalization is best understood by being part of it.
As part of this event, the institution presented a special recognition to Alexander for becoming a great support and strengthen the Department of Languages, in addition to its main activities conversation club which helped our young people to consolidate their English proficiency; the authorities also wished him the best of success in his upcoming projects.

UTNA continues to strengthen this area so all interested students find at their home college all the necessary tools and more to overcome the barriers that exist in the workplace. As competent men and women complete their studies and become competitive at international level by offering them the opportunity to study other languages such as French, Japanese and German for all students to feel self-motivated and seek an opportunity in an academic exchange.
